Report Nazi Troops Move Into Northern Italy Defence Posts

Axis Attempt to Reinforce Sicily Fails—Canadians Pushing Onward

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP).—German troops reported moving through the Brenner Pass to take up positions in Italy's northern provinces of Venetia, Lombardy and Piedmont, advices reaching The Associated Press from a European capital said today.

London newspapers carried similar reports from Switzerland, saying the troops were accompanied by engineers and work troops, some of them reportedly flown from Russia

A Swedish newspaper correspondent said "strong Italian forces are marching northward from Central Italy."

One Swiss correspondent wrote in The London Daily Express that the Germans appeared to be preparing a strong defence line all along the River Po.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA, July 27 (CP).—Canadian Troops, closely flanked by American and British forces, are pushing doggedly ahead through rough country towards the middle of the Axis defences guarding mountainous Northeastern Sicily.

The Canadians made "further limited progress after heavy fighting," said today's Allied Headquarters communique.

Meanwhile, deadly RAF Spitfires have shattered another desperate German attempt to reinforce Axis troops in Sicily, knocking down twenty-one troop transport planes over Messina.

The advance by the Canadians followed an enemy counter-attack.

Italy Warned By Churchill

War Goes On Until Nation Surrenders

LONDON, July 27 (AP).—Withholding judgment on the new Italian regime of Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Prime Minister Churchill warned the Italian people today that they must yet decide whether the terrible war power of the Allies brings them "relief from war and freedom from servitude" or a holocaust in which their pride will be "seared and scarred and blackened" from end to end.

In a restrained speech fore-ofplaying over the absence and fate of Benito Mussolini, who after had been a target of his choicest barbs, the Prime Minister told a crowded House of Commons that so far there had been no peace approaches from the new Italian Government and he clearly implied that Allied terms are still the unconditional surrender of all Italy.

Apparently knocking down any suggestion that Badoglio may have been the Allies' choice as head of an Italian surrender regime Mr. Churchill declared "I know little or nothing of the new government. I express no opinion on it."

But he clearly expressed a hope for Italian surrender

Although Mr. Churchill plainly declared that the war is to go on with Italy, he insinuated that the Allies hope Italy will decide to surrender before it is too late.

The first reaction to the speech was reflected in an Evening News editorial which said Mr. Churchill "utters words of common sense."

"The Italians have nevertheless Mussolini to the paper said. They now have new leaders. But so far those leaders have made no approaches to us. Therefore says Mr. Churchill, the war against Italy goes on."

The Evening Star commented: "The new distance cannot be accepted at face value. The war will go on until Italy surrenders. Badoglio is mistaken if he thinks he can wear Italian's mantle."

U.S. Troops Mile From Air Base

Soldiers and Marines Drive Toward Munda

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 28 (Wednesday) (AP).—American soldiers and Marines slugging steadily forward through the jungles of New Georgia, have scored new advances which have carried them to within less than a mile and one-fifth of the strategic air base at Munda.

The jungle fighters drove through strong Japanese defenses to the east of the airdrome yesterday in the second consecutive day of advance. A spokesman at Allied headquarters said the Americans passed the coastal village of Triase (sometimes spelled Terere).

Allied bombers again attacked the Japanese base at Munda, throwing great tons of high explosives on installations. It was the second consecutive day of concentrated bombing of that area. The day before 137 tons of bombs were dropped in the heaviest single day's assault on Salamaua.

Heavy and medium bombers in the Solomon Islands attacked enemy barge concentrations and supply dumps at Lae yesterday, starting fires. Four enemy fighters were in the air over Lae but did not intercept

The Japanese also were busy in the air in other areas, once dropped

Push Germans Back In Drive on Orel

LONDON, July 27 (AP).—Soviet troops atormed heights "of great tactical importance," pushed the German back with trip-hammer blows from position after position and brushed back repeated German counter-attacks today as they moved from two and a half to four miles closer to Orel from three directions, taking more than fifty populated places.

The Tuesday midnight communique recorded by The Associated Press, gave this picture of the relentless Russian sweep on the German bastion, keypoint of the Kursk Bulge from Orel

President of U.S. Critical

Does Not Like Radio Remarks About Italy

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP).—President Roosevelt today sharply criticized the chief of the War Information broadcast in which Victor Emmanuel, of Italy, was characterized as "the moronic little king" and Marshal Pietro Badoglio was called a Fascist.

However the President reaffirmed his insistence on the Allied policy of requiring unconditional surrender from Italy.

Mr. Roosevelt held his press conference that the alternate attack on the King and his new prime minister should never have been made. Asked if the Secretary of State Cordell Hull had been consulted before the broadcast, he said the air commentator, Major Robert E. Sherwood, director of OWI's overseas service in raising raids about it. The broadcast quoted from a Russian Iran radio speech by Samuel Grafton, New York Post columnist, who referred to the monarch as "king."

Milton S. Eisenhower, acting director of OWI declined to comment on the President's criticism of OWI.

He explained however, that the broadcast was in English and was beamed to Great Britain.

The indictment charged twenty-six overt acts against the United States, some of them charges of writing letters in German with invisible ink. One count charged Defendant with attempting to get American aircraft to Lybania and receiving $100 a payment.

Join Central Sicilian Fighting in Northeast Territory—Showing Up Well in Night Battles

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE CANADIANS IN CENTRAL SICILY, July 26 (Delayed) (CP)—Giving the Germans little rest, the Canadians are persisting in infantry and artillery attacks over the hills on the left flank of the Americans, and have joined in the Central Sicilian fighting by advancing in the northeast area.

The Canadians and Americans are using masses of artillery, firing barrages ahead of the infantry and the tanks

Hardly an hour passes day or night when Allied gunfire cannot be heard. Close liaison has been established between the Canadians and Americans. Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds the Canadian commander visited the American commander a few days ago, talking over the situation and making plans for further moves

Relentless Pressure to Force Italy's Decision

Churchill Says No Approaches Yet Made to Allies by Italian Government

LONDON, July 27 (CP).—The text of Prime Minister Churchill's statement today to the House of Commons:

The House will have heard with relief the dethrone fall of one of the principal criminals of this desolating war. The end of Mussolini's long and severe reign over the Italian people undoubtedly marks the close of one phase of the war. Many have held all sinister illusions for so long in fact for more than twenty years and held them for all this period in physical and even more in moral subjection.

GREAT CHANGES TO BE EXPECTED

We may therefore reasonably expect very great changes will take place in Italy. What their form will be no one can yet tell impact upon the forces of the German occupation and control, it is too early to forecast.

But the guilt and folly of Mussolini have cost the Italian people dear. It looked so safe and easy in May, 1940 to stab fallen France and to appropriate the Mediterranean interests and possessions of what had seemed undoubtedly believed was a decadent and ruined Britain.

It looked so safe and easy to add upon the much smaller state of Greece But, however, there have been undergoing Events have taken a different course.

By many hazardous turns of fortune and by long marches and destiny, British and United States armies having conquered the Italian African Empire, the north of Africa, and the great bulk of Sicily, now stand at the gates of the Italian mainland, armed with the power to cross the sea and air and very large land and amphibious forces equipped with every modern weapon and device.

BRING PEACE TO REGIONS OF EUROPE

What is it, Mr. Speaker, that these masterful forces bring to Europe? We, they bring if the Italian people so decide, relief from war, freedom from oppression and after an interval, a respectable place in a new and reformed Europe

When I learned of the scenes that were enacted in the streets of the fine city of Milan on the entry of the United States armies, and when I reviewed the mass of detailed information which I had been furnished I remembered the main aim of the Italian people is to be quit of their German taskmasters, to be spared a further and perfectly futile ordeal of destruction, and to revive their former democratic and parliament institutions.

Those they can have. The choice is in their hands. And what is the alternative? The Germans fatuously desire that Italy shall become a battleground, a preliminary battleground, and that by Italian sufferings the ravages of war shall be kept as far away as possible. So is being as possible, from the Germany Palatinate.

If the Italian Government and people choose that the Germans are to have every one, every one

Declare Mussolini Fell By Support of Nazi Plan

MADRID, July 27 (AP).—Travelers arriving by plane from Rome today declared that Benito Mussolini fell because he supported a German plan to abandon central and southern Italy for a strong defence line in the north, and that he now is at a villa between Rome and Ostia.

The new Government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio insists that all of Italy must be defended, if Italy is to remain in the war, and the Germans have been forced to agree, they declared.

Hitler had first proposed a strong stand behind the Po Valley, and Mussolini, seeking to do his bidding, was overruled by the Fascist Grand Council the night of 18 to 19 as asserted.

Carlo Scorza, Fascist party secretary, was reprieved under preventive arrest, with officers of Il Duce's entourage, confined in their homes.

On the issues of defence of all Italy, Badoglio for the moment at least has the support of the army and the Crown, both of which enjoy tremendous popular prestige as successors to Mussolini, this last-hour account of the crisis in Rome said.

The first clear report of what happened after Mussolini resigned came with the first Ala Littoria plane to leave Rome since the event. It is significant of the swift changes that the plane arrived stripped of all Fascist insignia, marked only by the Italian national colors, and that an hour after its arrival the Fascist name Ala Littoria had disappeared to Ala Romo in the lines' offices.

ITALIANS GIVE THEIR ACCOUNT

Some of these travellers were Italian officials who had witnessed the accounts of Mussolini's fall.

When Il Duce returned to Rome from his Verona meeting with Hitler, he called in his immediate party aides and told them that he had for considered Southern and Central Italy unfeasible with Sicily in allied hands

He said German plans called for a stand behind the Po Valley, and succeeded evacuation not only of Italian arms and munitions and troops behind this line, but all possible stored food, food stores and harvests so that the Allies would be left with the problem of supplying the people of Italy.

At Mussolini's suggestion, a meeting of the Fascist Council was called for Saturday. Meantime, although Il Duce expressed his disgust at the German plans other party leaders including Count Dino Grandi (Mussolini's arch-foe) also met separately with non-party men.

The council meeting lasted until 3 a.m. Sunday. Later Mussolini made a report, opposition formed to attack his conduct of the war and particularly his apparent acceptance of the German plan.

On the vote nine-tenths of members along with Mussolini's proposition that the only way open was to accept the Hitler scheme, while nineteen others were in open opposition.

This vote was taken early in the morning, and Mussolini announced that in the face of such opposition he considered it necessary to resign

ORGANIZATION WAS SECONDARY

A long discussion followed concerning the fate of the Fascist party. In event of his resignation, but by the time the meeting broke up it was agreed that the Fascist organization was secondary to what the members believed was the Italian future.

Early Sunday morning Mussolini went to the Royal Palace and handed his resignation to King Victor Emmanuel who was kept informed of the progress of the meeting and had talked with Badoglio.

The announcement was made Sunday night after Badoglio had advised the Germans of his decision that all Italy must be defended or Italy must leave the war, and the Germans agreed. Hard hits that alternative to help in defence of the whole peninsula.

The enthusiasm which greeted announcement of Mussolini's resignation and Badoglio's appointment was tremendous throughout Italy.

Demonstrations formed in every major Italian city, where marchers of all classes massed in the public squares and cheered Badoglio and hooted Il Duce and Fascism.

Fascist uniforms vanished from the streets of Northern Italy and Fascist emblems were ripped off monuments and public buildings of were covered with the Italian national colors.

NO DOUBT IN ITALIAN MINDS

There may have been some doubt abroad as to whether Mussolini's resignation meant the end of Fascism, but there was no doubt in the minds of the Italians.

In Rome Fascist militia garrisons made preparations to resist, but crumbled swiftly when Badoglio sent regular army units to demand their surrender, with orders to shoot if they were unlike now incorporated into the army and subject to army discipline.

Saanich Police End Career of Marauding Bear

They shot and killed the bear on the Booth Farm, Beaver Lake Road, where he was seen the morning of the farm breaking cherry trees. The bear, a male is estimated to be about three years old and 250 pounds in weight.

Plans for his future are hazy, since his coat is too sparse to make a good rug and the police are not particularly eager to sample bear steak occurred in Turin, Bologna, Genoa and other cities in Northern Italy.

LONDON July 27 (CP)—Without confirmation, rumors of negotiations for an Italian-Allied armistice continued tonight in neutral quarters of in London.

RUMORS REACH WORLD CAPITALS

Count Giacomo Buardo, Fascist president of the Italian Senate and his aide-de-camp resigned today and King Victor Emmanuel appointed Marshal Pietro De Vecchi to succeed him, the Rome radio announced. The King received the new cabinet members.

It was said, however, in another Swedish report that official decision has been made regarding the future of Italy's allies.

Despite Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio's decree barring public assemblies the Italian dispatch said representatives of reconstituted Italian political parties met in Turin last night and drafted a resolution urging him to recognize their representative right to expression of full expression of public opinion".

A Berne broadcast recorded in New York by N.B.C. said Badoglio's rule represents a necessary reversion from the old Government to the Fascist Government.

RELATE CAUSES OF SHAKE-UP

Statements by travellers who arrived at Madrid from Rome today aboard an Italian plane presenting this picture of the week-end shake-up and its causes

1 Hitler proposed abandonment of Central and Southern Italy in order to shorten the lines from Brenner and establishment of a strong line behind the Po River. Mussolini agreed to the proposal but to do so had ordering Hitler was overruled by the Fascist Grand Council and Mussolini resigned and handed the King his resignation Sunday morning

3 Marshal Badoglio, taking over told the Germans that "all Italy must be defended or Italy is all lost in the war." Hitler, confronted by this alternative agreed to help in the defence of the whole peninsula.

4 Germans had said not to be at all, the seven Rome and Ostia in the Tiber River valley (seize mile southwest of the capital) Madrid dispatches did not bring out whether this was under guard Earlier Berlin, Stockholm and Berne reports said he had been arrested The Fascist party, seek strike before the developments were announced designed in part to protect the leaders and in part to hold those considered responsible for Italy's plight.

TOKIO-REILIN GIVE VERSIONS

Radio press broadcasts from both Berlin and Tokio continued to emphasize the marshal's statement that the war goes on and interpreted Mussolini's resignation as a domestic matter

A Tokio dispatch said Italian Ambassador Mario Indelli had assured Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu an hour-long interview that Italy's war policy based on the Axis pact was not affected.

Acting if guaranteed responsible circles in Italy a D.N.B. dispatch broadcast from Berlin declared the shift in Rome was a "constitutional revision and that Italy continues on the road which she has taken.

Demonstrations during Sunday night against the insignia and seals of the Fascist party are described as unimportant note which already have been completely suppressed, D.N.B. said. "In all Italian cities, complete order and calm prevail."

A private message distributed by D.N.B to newspaper editors explained the position as this "Contrary to rumors in Rome which Hitler has had placed an important role in the German-Italian relations, the Fascist party has become powerless than the more decisive question of the community of faith of Germany and Italy in the fight for European freedom.

BERNE, Switzerland, July 27 (AP)—Exactly a two-day celebration of the fall of Mussolini, the Italian people grew calmer tonight and a movement was reported taking shape for the assaoring a liberal regime in the future, according to advices reaching here from Italian cities.

Marshal Pietro Badoglio's ban against public gatherings was ignored in several cities, notably Turin, where representatives of the reconstituted Italian political parties were reported to have met last night and drafted a resolution urging Badoglio to grant the "necessary formation" for full expression of public opinion in development of the new national regime.

These representatives, the reports which was flung back by the Canadians with heavy losses to the German Dispatches said Axis resistance increased along the northern front as the United States troops from Army pushed ahead according to said British Eighth Army patrols felt out the strong enemy positions before Catania, midway along the east coast.

While reports of the reunder-attack came from the front, it was revealed that the Germans have started to spot their forces along the entire front from Catania to the west coast area between Trapani and Celaia Pali of Termini, twenty miles east of Palermo, was announced Monday Celaia is nearly twenty miles farther east

MORE GERMANS LAND ON COAST

These reports and the reported presence of German reinforcements in the northern coast area—along with use of aerial transport—were the latest indication of Axis determination to fight for what is left of Sicily.

The twenty-one Junkers-52 transports were seen landing there also Sunday along with eight Axis fighters and R.A.F. Beaufighters in another action downed two giant German 323-Messerschmitts. The latter can carry more than 100 men apiece but it was not reported whether they were filled with troops

Determined to win as much time as possible in Sicily, the Germans attempted to save reinforcement after sending the 29th Motorized Division to the island from Italy. Now Allied planes are raining the Germans landing barges and fast new installations to cut off sea communications

The Germans gambled extra-gantly with their giant transports, the Allies have carried out a raid on Trabiani all of Sicily's main airports and the great airport presumably started for improvised or badly-damaged fields risking crash landings

Only one Spitfire was lost in the battle over Sicilia. The R.A.F. reportedly duplicated that of American Lightnings last week in knocking down twenty-one Junkers-52 transports in a few moments.

CANADIANS IN HARD FIGHTING

German counter-attacks against American and Canadian forces were believed aimed by the 15th German Panzer Division. The Canadians have been repulsed by hard fighting with this division since they drove forward from the beach at the area around Pliales Armerina which fell three ten days ago

Since the fall of Enna, the Canadians have been going forward more slowly than in the early invasion days, but they are operating over hilly country with Etna in the towering setting The Germans apparently are forming a slow and powerful withdrawal into their inner defences

The Joint Canadian-American effort in starting off the latest German attempt to hold up the enemy advance from attacks was typical of the teamwork the Canadians and Americans have displayed since they forced medale lines, but were forced back down from one position after another. More than 1,000 Germans were wiped out in two days fighting here a twenty-six tanks were destroyed.

GERMANS IN HARD FIGHTING

The Germans were fighting desperately for the strategic Orel-Bryansk railway, their one main supply line behind the Russian military West to the north-east, while the Fuehrer Bader him, the guarantee of German supports. Proof that he could no longer discharge that function made his fall from power no more than a plain recognitions of hard facts

At present the Allies are concerned only with the strategic significance of what has occurred, and can regard it only as a manoeuvre designed to secure better terms than could have been expected under Fascist regime

The dictator has gone But three who have taken his place are in their records not one completed to his policy, and are no more capable than he of saving the country from its bitter fruit

A July has fallen on land and air operations in the Mediterranean as though to give an ominous background to the upbraid jingle Pravda reports The Times Algiers correspondent The considerable, however, is probably fortuitous The Allied advance in Sicily is bound to be slow even because it is now up against the enemy's prepared line of defence, and the Allies are country is becoming for more broken and mountainous on before Mussolini's resignat had proved that defeatism was rampant in Italy and suggested that a peace multi-cover was being sought. The Times' diplomatic correspondent. The peace proposal of the Italians Italy clearly brought on the attack.

Italy's leaders might console themselves with the thought that their soldiers would perhaps fight more on the Italian mainland than their heavy the arma for a long campaign. Without doubt many of the Italian leaders as well as the common people, would now be glad to give up the war

Probably the king in emphasizing Italy's ancient position in his proclamation deliberately echoed Pope Pius's Christmas Eve and Churchill message to the Italian people ten days ago Probably he meant it as a signal to the Allies

But the Allied Governments are prepared to acknowledge no change until Italian authorities accept unconditional surrender. Little terms which will then be set forth and remove not only the Englander but all Italy are tainted with the Fascist regime

Editorially The Times says the rapid over-running of Sicily had has continued the Italian Government with something worse than defeat —the revelation that a large part of their army no longer has its heart in the defence of Italy's metropolitan territory

In those circumstances Mussolini, at his recent meeting with Hitler, was evidently constrained to make urgent appeal for help, and it is equally evident that adequate help was not forthcoming

Mussolini was no longer of any military value to the enemy. Hitler

MAKING IT CLEAR

In a straight-from-the-shoulder speech to the House of Commons at Westminster yesterday, Mr. Churchill said the two things which should be said at this stage of the global conflict. The first was that the peace terms of the United Nations will remain the unconditional surrender of our foes, and all of them. The second was the unchanged decision to lay siege to Italy until, if so far as Italy is concerned, those terms are accepted. With many a graphic phrase, Mr. Churchill made both points clear. That was a service to the United Nations. Rating smoke above an entrapped Axis force at the northeastern corner of Sicily, and renewed air attacks on mainland ports, rails and airfields in Italy emphasized his remarks, effectively.

Whatever the next few weeks may bring to Italy, the United Nations can afford no compromise with aggressors who set out to beat down all freedom in the world, and who once were close to achieving that aim. Now, happily, the tide has turned, and it is flowing strongly in our favor. But this is not the moment, if ever it comes, to consider what might be called a "favored nation" treatment for any of our foes. At Casablanca, the British Empire and the United States of America pledged themselves to the unconditional surrender of the aggressors, a course which has the full accord of both Russia and China, each in their own spheres. Nor will anything short of that issue serve.

Italy, the most shaky of the despotic triumvirate arrayed against us, may seek to bargain, especially in view of the collapse of the Fascist regime. That collapse, however, has merely placed the regular army of Italy in command, and the blackshirts in a minor role. The Italian speaks for a Mussolini, and with almost equal powers. There may be, and indeed it seems beyond doubt, a general desire on the part of the Italian people towards peace, but Italy's leaders have yet to take that step. Our terms for peace, at Casablanca and now, are the unconditional surrender of the foe.

Because he has made that clear, Mr. Churchill has cut the ground from under those influences which might seek to ease Italy out of the war under special terms and conditions, which would any future peace settlement in the world. Italy has no valid claim to special terms. When she thought France was prostrate, she struck at her. When Greek Britain was being bombed, she asked for a share in that. When Nazi Germany was defeated, she worked her will among the unarmed peoples of the western desert. At every point there were lots of thousands of Italian hands raised in acclaim of all these things. Italy considered that she was upon the winning side, and that this was the way to share in the spoils otherwise. Can she hunt with the hare, and also with the hounds?

It has long been clear that there is really no such thing as neutrality or impartiality in this global war. Those who fight on the side of freedom, are carrying that freedom. Those who are not so fighting must be ranked at least in the category of those who were not ready to risk their fortunes in such a result. Yet, it is freedom that mankind wants, and freedom mankind will have through the conclusion of this conflict, for those who make war against the world. It is realized, of course, that some who would fight have been unable to implement their desire, but in every instance it is the will that matters most. Viewed in that light, Italy should declare herself for her own accord before there will be anything with which the United Nations may treat. In intimating as much, Mr. Churchill has expressed truly both the pledges of the United Nations and the sober thought of a free world. Italy must surrender, or fight. There is no middle course possible, and the time for shopping for peace on bargain bargain sales has long since past.

A TRUMP CARD

Not much has been said about it to date but the Allies have held growing air power as a real trump card in this conflict. They are using it, way, and in some regions they have arrived at, outright air superiority in the war over the Axis powers. The twice-a-day bombing attacks on Italy against a German fighter defence of 300 machines that was powerless to stop it, the virtual grounding of German and Italian machines over Sicily and Southern Italy, the defeat of the Nazi dive-bombing over Belgium and Ireland, and the growing weight of Allied air blows in the Pacific, are all evidences of the same thing. The enemy is losing his place in the skies.

This week afforded the fresh evidence of that over the Western air front. To the British air arm, which was fielding 1,200 heavy bombers, bombers in a single night, United States machines added a striking power that has doubled and redoubled within the last six months. While Britain did to the Ruhr almost without assistance, British and United States machines can repeat and redouble almost at will. The test of this, too, lay in the Hamburg, Cologne and Essen raids of the current week. For the forces involved, our losses were fractional and the weight of the combined blows the heaviest yet struck by any side in the war.

Nor has the limit been reached. British air power is growing steadily, fed by a production line that has produced some of the most effective aircraft in the war. For every United States machine that was in service six months ago, two three or more will be taking the field in the course of the coming Battle of Europe. Off to the East, Russia is holding the Luftwaffe steadily, and with a growing preponderance of weight and assurance in the air. All of these factors, potential up to the present, will be arrayed actually against Germany when the main drive comes.

There is this about air power that the enemy well knows. When a force loses qualitative and quantitative superiority in the air, it loses much of its ability to stay there at all. A sweep follows and it is a clear sweep, brushing all opposition out of the sky. For the first years of the war the Axis had that superiority, as we learned to our cost. Now the enemy is losing, or has already lost it. In this sphere of action the winner takes all. In region after region of the war the Allies have taken the upper berth in the air. They are breaking enemy fighters out of their own in the sky. What that will mean when it is carried to its ultimate striking power will be an Allied trump card in this war. There are, no doubt, other trump cards, but none which the enemy fears more, or with better cause.

SAILPLANES

The Victoria and Island Gliding and Soaring Club has announced that it will assemble its two primary training glider at a local hangar this week. Field trials may be some distance off yet, but stage by stage the vision that will one day give this community a fascinating and instructive new hobby is overcoming the obstacles inherent in all new enterprises. It is now remarked before, this is the time for such a start, when in the Greater Victoria area there are numbers of trained individuals in flying services from whom instructors may be drawn.

Gliding is a sense, is sailing in the air. It is in a motorless plane that the individual learns the behavior of airfoils at first hand, the use of natural currents and the delights and the pitfalls of a free wind. In this instance it would seem that the pre-requisites have been taken care of, and that instruction commencing now will be upon airworthy machines in the hands of experienced instructors. A number of flying officers of today's generation with superb training have already expressed keen interest in the sport.

Soaring and gliding, coming to us in the middle of a war, are already established as prime favorites at other organizations and in many countries of the world. The motorless plane, be it a glider or its ultra-refined sister, the sailplane, is an experience that must be savored to be appreciated to the full. There is nothing quite like it in the air. It is a man's closest approach to what birds have done by instinct for all of their existence on this earth. From this small start, Greater Victoria may be launching one of the most instructive and entertaining hobbies of the future—motorless flight.

U-BOATS AND WASTE

In all Canada today there is probably no sounder advice than that individuals should save, where they can. The ability to do so may be less pronounced with governments than it is at the same time there are many cases in which individuals would have if they would. To neglect such opportunities now is to invite the day when such neglect may be regretted too late. By a happy inspiration, Canada has commenced War Savings drive with anti-submarine measures, inviting the public to take part simultaneously in both.

It is a known fact that the U-boats have taken a tremendous beating in the Atlantic, after a long and desperate form of undersea warfare. Three weeks ago, a single convoy broke down in the convoy crossings to the Motherland. Convoy after convoy has gone through to Great Britain, unscathed, bringing to Britain the men and the supplies that will help to finish the job upon which all heroic efforts are entered. In the time to drive the attack against the U-boats home. Ninety dollars in War Savings Stamps and Certificates will cover the cost of a depth charge, and a depth charge may be sufficient to send some raider to the bottom, out of the war.

What the U-boat is a visible and understandable threat, waste is not less so for all of its hidden operation. If individuals now earning more than they have ever earned before do not save, some of that aside of their own initiative, they will be acquiring a set of tastes that postwar depression may have a tendency to deny. The people of humanity is to spend it, requires a conscious effort and a will to do it. Some may have the reasons but also for the long-range future in their own lives, individuals should make that effort now, where they can. For these times will not come soon again.

It is an unfortunate fact that war itself breeds a carelessness of the economic and private values. People, reading of billion dollar budgets, say why should they save it is only the future that could answer that. In a clear-cut instance, the present or what the future must one day bring. No one is harmed by having some of the surplus of today's earnings laid by. On the contrary, savings give point to the freedom and the peace that so many have died in foreign places to go and things to be done then that are beyond human reach today.

It is a human failing that people seldom take advice they are able to give to themselves. In their hearts they know that emergency times breed emergency conditions and neither will last. In their pockets, however, they find money to spend and they spend it, sometimes merely because it is there. A gift, even a small part, of such sums laid away systematically and forgotten would be a nest-egg in many a Canadian home in the years that are yet to come. For savings are not unlike rabbits, which breed in rapidly and in the same proportions as many have not had that experience before. Some people suspect the advice because Governments have given it, but in this instance Government and common sense are allied.

It is progress when an international committee meets in London, England, to discuss the teaching of an international language, or language, after the war. They could be on a clear road to the general understanding of mankind, if it can be achieved.

IN MEMORIAM

(Charles R. C. Swayne)

Time passes lightly o'er the dead,
It holds not's life in thrall
Of all the memoriants never spared
Of mortal pall.

The crisis now, or that to be
The clamour of a moment's time
Calm reason sought a way of life,
Till evening found an empty chair.

The world one grieves, and one die
Is sought of earth nor rainbow hues
Benediting of spirit and of thought.
He spread its incense out like new.

Chinese Fought Well For General Gordon

FRANK M. KELLY

It was General (Chinese) Gordon, a British Army officer, in command of the victorious forces in the Taiping Rebellion, who wrote shortly after the fighting was over that with British officers and Chinese soldiers he could whip any army of equal numbers in the world. It was this that gives to soap judgments. General Gordon knew the adaptability and the mettle of the men who had served under him and what they could do in battle if trained and led.

General Gordon did not have the opportunity of showing the world what the combination of British officer and Chinese fighting material could do in a major war. It may be just as well, too, that the Chinese, by nature peaceful and in no way partial to soldiering, paid little or no attention to the distinguished officer's universal tribute. Had the Chinese been material to Gordon and realized the possibilities of conquest material in the millions of men the country could muster, British officers might have been instrumental in creating a fighting machine which might have placed, long ere this, an entirely different map of Asia that in which China is presently engaged.

JAPANESE IMPERIALISM

Something of General Gordon's opinion of Chinese soldiering and of his effectiveness for military purposes must have impressed the Japanese and some of those in power have gone by. It would seem so, judging by the preparations, Japanese have had been making for some decades past, for a gigantic conquest of vast portions of Chinese territory. Japan's ambition to become the greatest world power could be realized only certainly in the course of time if she could empire upon the Chinese and the sundry millions of China for the eventual onslaught on Europe and America. Some, at least, may have been Japan's dream.

Preliminary to this phase of her long-range power politics, Japan, never in a hurry except when the opportunities for war which occurred in Europe during 1939 developed, apparently decided on a massive industrialization of China as a first step in her quest for world supremacy. The development of China's natural resources, planned upon the assumption of the confidence of the Chinese people would be made over to Japan, Japanese ideas took root, would provide the opportunity for building up a war machine which would begin to roll along the road to world conquest in the years that would intervene the time propitious.

Preparing for the future of an up-grade civilization, the Japanese did not use much finesse in making their plans for co-operation, and China might have been impressed. The Japanese, apparently, were not preparing to make the first step in her march to world conquest, but to be received in the Mandelhomania. Impatients, China's neighbor tried other tactics, revealing her intentions. Attempts at coercion on Japan's part, in spite of protests willing to the Japanese game, served to solidify the rather fluid spirit of nationalism overcome the Chinese people, so the Manchurian and North China attempts, which Japan did not have the Chinese to provide opposition sufficient to make the Japanese leaders of Japan must effectively and for more than six years now.

FAILING OWN FUTURE

Starved out of her traditional ways by the threat and the challenge of modernization, China still preferred to shape the future of her own way, carving her own future, rather than the Japanese had used to be said, and loudly too, by a Chinese General, Chiang Kai-Shek, Chinese constituted a "Yellow peril," and would one day overwhelm the Japanese. Japanese, and German, inclined, did not do something to make the threat seem alarmed.

"There are a few people even today who have not realized the potential enemy of the Western World. It could be at some future time a modernization method, which would change the age-old complex of the people. Japan is hoping, it is highly likely, or it might happen if China, in not deal with Japan, that China will be dealt with for what she is doing and has done to frustrate Japanese aims. It is the world Responsibility for China's future rests equally with the major powers who are now her allies. What they decide to do will have much to do with the shaping of China's future. It is reasonable to assume that the one way China could be perpetuate a policy of give-and-take in a peaceful way, which was recently enunciated on a memorable day in the North Atlantic, that China might be content with her Husbandry and industrial plans, plans which were interrupted when she took on democracy's fight in 1937.

Observation Car

By G.B.

Condensed from "Inside Norway" in Life. There are more than 1,000 Norwegians who still fail to admire the new order in the Ortnit concentration camp near Trondheim. Some were seized by the gates for hours awaiting the briefest glimpse of loved ones who cannot give them the slightest sign of recognition. Sometimes Nazi officers give the grieving lad, and girling worse. So far the mortality rate has hit chiefly the boys' limits, but next Winter the nutritional level is expected to drop to a new low. Unless help comes, thousands will die. Children will suffer particularly. Right now, children and children spend days trying to get enough food. Three sliver of bread, a cup of soup and a few herings, often rotten, are not filling the stomach. The official ration is a pound per month is impossible to obtain. Yet, despite everything, Norwegian patriotism never flags. Opposition to the Nazis blazes in every class of society. Clerks and stenographers daily risk underground work. Many people secretly are glad if they are caught. Most Swedes, who are sympathetic to the Norwegians, but officially little can be done because of the blockade and the fact that Sweden is surrounded, evacuated to Sweden. Nonetheless, there is a little refugee, hiding in every week at the Norwegian legation in Stockholm. Nazi efforts to stop the underground have failed. Keeping Continuing underground activities, Norway's Nazi Quisling, Terje Wegna is under suspicion. Numerous Norwegians have escaped to the Norway and several camps for deserters now exist. Norwegians are the Nazis' hope for overcoming their fortifications with slave labor, and they are concentrating on the future. But for the most part, their faith is unshaken. Norway's Nazis are a few Neo officers, perhaps even the soldiers, no longer believe in victory. Many say that the Allies, their relatives is coming, but they pray it may not be too late."

MR. SWAYNE

Sir—I heard with great regret of the passing of your late Editor-in-Chief, Mr. Swayne. I would like to say that over a long period of years Mr. Swayne had been very kind to me in publishing my letters, I wrote to the paper on different subjects, and I feel that I owe a great deal to the public and, in all, who know him.

MALAHAT TIMBER

Sir—The enclosed letter to Minister of Lands, Hon. Duncan Chamber of Commerce to the Provincial Lands Department concerning logging on the Malahat.

A. M. Ross.

Minister of Lands, Victoria

Dear Sir,—The attention of this Board has been drawn to the fire, way in which the Malahat is rapidly being denuded of timber.

It is not necessary to remind you that the fame of the Malahat as a scenic spot is renowned practically all over the North American continent, and is one of the first attractions of Vancouver Island. It is felt that it would be worth, at least some effort to save it, would be a crime and a scandal.

Before logging, the Board feels we wish to make it quite clear that we have no complaint whatever against the Malahat Park Logging Co., owners of the timber in question. They purchased this some time ago in good faith, and have every right in turn and to a reasonable time in which to log it.

The only people who can save the Malahat are the Provincial Government.

It is suggested that steps be taken immediately to halt the despoiling—pending some satisfactory settlement between the owners. Any action be delayed it will be too late, for trees—as you know—once cut down can only be replaced after a lapse of at least fifty years.

It would appear that the only people who do be for the Government to purchase the trees that are still left, outright, or make an exchange. We are sure the Malahat Park Logging Co. will star their Board of Trade, and every business concerned, will gladly give assistance in any way at

Honor Roll Lists 200 in Service on Many Battlefronts

A large illuminated honor roll cut in half by the sword of St. Michael and topped by his shield, has adorned many passers-by in one of the windows in David Spencer's. It lists in silent eloquence the names of 200 Victoria schoolboys, former pupils of St. Michael's, who are now in service in every part of the world to fight the "Dragon" of the twentieth century.

With Canadian British, American and Indian armies they have carried the sword of St. Michael into battle, remembering their school motto, "Nihil Magnum Nisi Bonum," "nothing a great unless it is good," and on the honor roll are many who have won distinctions.

Serving in the Near East, in Northern Africa, in Burma, on the Atlantic and the Mediterranean and in the Indian waters, the old boys from this small school, opened thirty-three years ago, number in their ranks thirteen colonels, eight majors, two lieutenant-colonels, two naval lieutenant-commanders, one commander, a wing commander with the R.A.F., four squadron leaders of the R.A.F. and the R.C.A.F., and innumerable flight lieutenants.

ON MANY BATTLEFRONTS

They are on the battlefronts with the Royal Hussars, the Indian Navy, the American naval intelligence, the Princess Pats, the Seaforths, the Pure Regiment, the Royal Navy and the Royal Canadian Navy, and in the air forces of all three great nations.

More than a score have won decorations and been mentioned in dispatches. Fourteen black armies mark the names of those who have been listed as holding the killed in action, including the name of the Indian Army man.

Commander Douglas Prentice, D.S.O., of the Chambly has at least one submarine to his credit. Lieut.-Cmdr. Tom Gubby, who went down with the Wrynecks, wrote a story of heroism that is well known and has mentioned in dispatches.

Wing Cmdr. Jack Minor, Pulton outstanding bomber pilot, was also in the news for his brilliant exploits. He served in Palestine, South North Africa and Burma, and won the D.S.O., D.F.C. and A.F.C. He is now missing.

FAIRY ON SCHOOL TRADITIONS

Cited for extremely valuable work on convoy duty, Lt. Ted Williams was awarded the Air Force Cross. He carried out 187 sorties over the North Atlantic and later won the D.F.C. He is still with the RCAF.

Sqdn. Ldr. Vernon Woodward, D.F.C. of the RAF is another of the boys carrying on St. Michael's traditions. He bagged the first enemy aircraft in the Western Desert and is credited with twenty-three enemy planes shot down.

Flt. Lieut. Michael Symons was with the RAF in the Prairie during the days when he was in the air over Dunkerque and later he fought in the Battle of Britain.

Sub-lieutenant Dunn was killed in action.

Another of St. Michael's boys is Wing Commander Arthur Cowan, who is now acting group captain with the RCAF somewhere. Wing Commander Cowan was also with the RAF when he was wing commander in charge of the Ferry Command over the Atlantic.

There is Lt.-Col. O. Foster, D.S.O., on naval intelligence. Major R. Berrick with the Indian Army. Lt. R. Shaw with the Royal Indian Navy. Major F. Burk with the Royal Army Medical Corps and Major Ronald Scott-Moncrieff of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps.

OLD BOYS MEET AT BATTLE STATIONS

Lt. Ernest M. Chadwick was cited for bravery and daring on one occasion when the Bremen went into action and three old boys found themselves in the thick of it together. Chadwick, mentioned, were Lt. Ian Grant, a gunnery officer and Lt. William Kidd, navigator.

But there are 200 on the list and each has a story of courage and sightness. The headmaster, R. C. Robinson, keeps in touch with all of them. He has written over 1,300 letters to his old boys in the services and thus answer affectionately from every theatre of the war.

The masters who are their boys build a record such as this: teaching at Ian Ray were in The Trinity Rota of School in the same rights rewarded professors in the world.

Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds Youngest Ever to Take Canadian Into Action

Average Age of Divisional Commanders in Present War Much Lower Than in Last One

OTTAWA, July 27 (CP)—Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds, force of Hamilton, Ont., leading the Canadian First Division in the battle of Sicily, is the youngest general ever to take a Canadian division into action.

The average age of the five divisional commanders in Canada's second-on-youth army a forty-five. The army's historical section said today this compared with an average of fifty-one for the four generals who led the four divisional of the Canadian Corps into action in the First Great War and an average of forty-eight for all nine generals who at one time or another commanded Canadian divisions in the last war.

The average age of all ten generals in the present Canadian Army overseas including the army commanders, two corps commanders and two army staff officers, is fifty.

The oldest is Maj.-Gen. C. B. L. Hertzberg of Toronto, engineer-in-chief who is fifty-seven. The army commander-in-chief, Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, fifty-six comes next in years. The two corps commanders Lt.-Gen. B. D. G. Crerar of Ottawa and Kingston and Lt.-General E. W. Sansom, a New Brunswicker, are fifty-five and fifty-four respectively. Maj.-Gen. Otto Turner of Pembroke senior staff officer, is fifty-four.

Maj.-Gen. P. F. Worthington commanding an armored division, at Maa, will be celebrated at 3.30 p.m. on Friday at St. Andrews Cathedral. Interment will take place in Colwood Burial Park.

All-Sooke Day

Today is All-Sooke Day, when a real old-fashioned basket picnic and a full programme of sports will be offered. Victoriaites, many of whom will be on the Sooke Harbour holidays, have been invited to attend bringing their own baskets. There will be a good supply of hot water for the picnickers.

There will be the usual free ice cream for the kiddies and a fund of original entertainment but the big day will not be as such a scale as in previous years because of wartime restrictions.

However, there is no restriction on crowds and difficulties, but the attendance will be as large as in former years.

Colorful Pioneer Of Sooke Passes

One of the most colorful and well-known residents of Brooks River, Rear-Admiral Horace Thomas, died in Victoria on Monday at the age of seventy-six years. Born in Victoria he had lived in the Sooke area for more than seventy-four years, and had suffered a lengthy illness prior to his death.

He had a small farm but spent a good part of his time panning for gold. He had worked the Leech River and only last year made a venture Up-Island in search of gold.

At one time he lived at Outer Point, but more recently made his home on Church Road. In later years he was a constant worshipper in the Roman Catholic Church at Sooke.

Surviving are a daughter Mrs. M. A. Peters, one brother George a sister Mrs. M. Wilson, and one grandson Brian Edward Peters, all of Brooks. Prayers will be offered at 8 p.m. on Thursday at the P. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home, and Mass will be celebrated at 9.30 a.m. on Friday at St. Andrews Cathedral. Interment will take place in Colwood Burial Park.

Wartime Instructions For Food Preservation

CANADIANS have been asked this year to grow Victory Gardens and to make preparation for more home storage and preservation of food. How can this be done safely to prevent waste and preserve food value with the minimum of sugar available?

The following is an official publication by the British Columbia Provincial Nutrition Committee and approved by Nutritionist of foods where contain botulinus toxin is sufficient to cause death. To be absolutely safe, all boil non-acid vegetables at least ten minutes after removing them from the jar or can.

Where a pressure cooker is available, any vegetables may be safely preserved if the directions are carefully followed. If a pressure cooker is not available, it is safer to preserve non-acid vegetables such as asparagus, peas, corn, string beans, spinach and root vegetables by other methods than canning.

Household Storage—Unless a pressure cooker is available this is the best method for root crops such as carrots, beets, parsnips, turnips and potatoes. Cabbage, cauliflower, potatoes and spinach may also be stored successfully.

Canning and Salting—The green and leafy vegetables such as spinach and cabbage are best preserved by this method. One pound of salt to four pounds of vegetables plus 2 ounces of water makes a brine which prevents putrefactive or gas forming bacteria, and prevents the growth of botulinus toxin. Vegetables for preservation with fermentation may be canned.

Drying—Difficult to do successfully in the home without special equipment as vegetables lose most of their link sugar content during the hot dry air needed for drying.

The "United We Can" campaign now being held in Victoria will be of great assistance in demonstrating methods of canning.

Brilliant Recital Given by Harpist At Summer School

A programme quite unique in the twelve years history of the Summer School of Music was given last night in the place Tuesday morning at the studio of Miss Phyllis Mitchell, pupil of San Francisco, one of the most outstanding harpists. Her programme on this occasion, gave a recital on the harp. The rare beauty of the harp music in the hands of such a charm of the performer enchanted a appreciative audience, of whom, at the conclusion of the recital, gathered round to express their pleasure in a recital so educational and answer questions as to an instrument which she had a few before heard used in solo capacity.

With an abundance of feeling, technique and artistic skill in the use of the pedals, Miss Mitchell commanded a fine range of tone varying from the full-throated and sonorous force to the most gossamer-like whisper. The whole performance was marked by extreme refinement, grace and charm. With pale gold hair and wearing a Rosetti robe of crushed pink silk, brilliant features and a good profile, Miss Morgan was beautiful to watch as she sat in brief, being quite devoid of mannerisms and seemingly effortlessly producing the fine sound by the mere sweep of her hands across the strings.

Most nearly approaching the archaic quality which one associates with an instrument of such dim antiquity, the harp, in the hands of Miss Mitchell, was marked by a rich and mellow tenderness, with an early minstrelsy rendition by Sammartini. In the same group were Fauré's Impromptu, Caprice, a fleet-fingered performance Bach's Bourree, of much precisely and Rescalati's Siciliana, in which each hand in turn had a strongly individual tone.

A Handel composition for contrap Concerto in B Flat, written in characteristic Bach manner but arranged for the modern harp by Grandjany one of Miss Mitchell's teachers, was given a place by itself in three movements, andante allegro largetto and allegro moderato. It was delightfully piquant in the second movement particularly the resultant touch of the player upon the strings, pizzicato effect strained.

For her last group Miss Morgan played Faure's Impromptu, which gave scope for the delicate of the more delicate tone of the instrument. There were two a pair of original numbers by Grandjany both founded on French folk songs in first suggesting shepherds and fairies at play, the second a spirited, wild dance. Tournier's "Danse Bohemienne" and "Prelude Pathetique" Prelude Debussy's Claire de lune and Pierne's Impromptu completed a feature exceptional for musical appreciation.

In response to general request the artist gave a brief history of the harp and of its place in the instruments of the same. Beginning in Egypt, she traced its influence in the improvements introduced by Sebastien Erard in the eighteenth century, and pointed out modern principles which have been incorporated with advantage to tone pitch and key variations.

Tell Their Story of Careful Preparation

OF the careful preparation behind the share of the invasion of Sicily—the first "combined operation" in which Canadian naval personnel retained their identity as a Canadian unit, manning their own flotillas of landing craft.

In command of the sea units as well, was group-officer was Lieut. Jack E. Kool of Saskatoon, a veteran of Dieppe and North Africa landings. With him was Lieut. Robert Smith of Regina.

(Dispatches from Allied headquarters in North Africa said it was estimated 500 Canadian naval men took part in the Sicilian landings—as members of the R.C.N., the Royal Navy, and combined operations units).

Weeks before the attack on Sicily the new Canadian landing force got orders to sail from the United Kingdom—destination unidentified.

For days the ship sailed south and around the Cape and up the East African coast to the Mediterranean.

FULL DRESS REHEARSAL

Some time before the Sicilian invasion the navy merchant navy army and air force put on a full-dress rehearsal for the job ahead.

From the mess-decks where they had been rehearsing the invasion recipe with a bash the navy-army operations, the Canadians made their way to their craft.

Assault force, full to by your watch; embark enemy coast! came the order.

The troops moved in their positions.

The flotilla officer, the senior Canadian officer who would lead his landing craft afloat, checked his watch.

If you're ready . . . " He suggested to his army officer. The word was passed down the lines, and the troops commenced embarking.

Seasick about to be both. There was no hitch.

Then it was the turn of the merchant crew. The carrier ship has manned by her own merchant crew. They were on duty as the devils waiting the order to leave. Quiet on its heels the landing craft started to descend in the sea. Greased falls, steel hawsers, dropped them. The splashing of keel against water was the only sound. And then with engines running quietly, falls were cast off and the craft rose by one, slipped away into the darkness to form into a flotilla ready to land their troops.

In the carrier ship there was no lessening of activity. More troops were to be landed and their assembly, at the correct embarkation points was already in course. The return of the landing craft: once their first troops were discharged (most second loads made their flotilla the whole forty across) there was never a delay, through troops

Make Public Citations for Flying Awards

OTTAWA, July 27 (CP)—The R.C.A.F. today made public citations covering the award of three Distinguished Flying Medals, three Distinguished Flying Crosses and a bar to the Distinguished Flying Cross. Including the D.F.M. to Sgt. Cameron McKenzie County of Gall, Ont. who flag fatal wounds from his crewmates saved when the aircraft was out of the danger zone.

County, twice wounded, was awarded over Cologne early in July and died a few days later.

The other awards:

Bar to D.F.C.—Flt. Lt. J. A. Spencer, Guelph, Ont.

D.F.C.—Flying Officers P. O. J. D. M. Blain, Toronto, and P. O. B. B. Marsh, Calgary.

D.F.C. P. O. G. C. Crowther Toronto.

D.F.M.—Sgt. J. Chepil, Edson Man. and Sgt. B. M. Smith, St. Boniface, Man.

Following are the citations.

P.O. Blain—This officer has completed thirty sorties on twenty of whom he has acted as captain of aircraft. He has participated in attacks on a wide range of enemy targets, including objectives at Le Havre, Frankfurt, Wilhelmshaven, Brest, Poissy, Boulogne and the Renault works at Paris. He has shown great thoroughness in planning his attacks, while his careful attention to detail during flights have enabled him to reach his target with regularity and accuracy.

On one occasion, following a sortie to Hamburg, his aircraft was held in a cone of searchlights and heavily engaged by the ground defences. Although his aircraft was damaged he skilfully evaded the fire zone and flew the damaged aircraft back to England. Throughout this officer has displayed fine leadership and courage which have won the entire confidence of his crew.

P.O. Chepil—This airman captained an aircraft detailed to attack a target at Le Creusot one night in June 1943. Soon after crossing the enemy coast the hydraulic system in the bomber became inoperative and Sgt. Chepil continued his flight. Later, one engine caught fire and became unserviceable. In spite of this the target was bombed after the bombs given had been opened by an experimental method. Sgt. Chepil afterwards flew the damaged aircraft to base.

This airman displayed outstanding determination and devotion to duty, setting an inspiring example.

Sgt. Smith—This airman was the pilot of an aircraft which attacked Friedrichshafen one night in June 1943. On the return flight the bomber was attacked by enemy fighter and sustaining damage to the fuselage, the hydraulic system and the wireless equipment. One of the crew were wounded. A fire broke out in the bomb bay but Sgt. Smith extinguished it. Shortly after, the rear turret became jammed and the gunner, Sgt. Nicholas Sgt. Smith, left his aircraft and the flames were extinguished by the force of the wind. On reaching an airfield in this country he effected a successful crash landing.

Sgt. Smith displayed great skill and resource in harassing circumstances.

Wooden Wheels Save Rubber

IT was a bright lad in the Winnipeg Branch of Trans-Canada Air Lines. And thought of beating the tire shortage by using a wooden wheel on cargo truck. The carpenter shop went into production, and the photograph shows Carpenter John Pearson at work. The airmen flying saw runs slim sheets of wood into semi-circles. These are fastened together the wheel frame is made then the wooden tire is shaped on the hub, a strip of canvas adhesive to it, and the whole thing painted. The finished job is shown here being admired by one of T.C.A.'s gal cargo handlers. The truck carry baggage, mail and express on the planes.

Have New System to Teach Fighting of the Submarine

By JOHN LEBLANC

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, July 27 (CP)—Canada's young navy is showing enterprise in originating and developing a new system of training its men for battling submarines.

Strictly a product of the R.C.N. this evolution of the ever-changing science of combatting the U-boats has attracted favorable attention of the Royal Navy and the United States Navy. Indications are that both these navy-wise fleets will be incorporating it soon in their training courses.

Filling men for the tricks job of fighting subs at night while protecting convoys is the main object of the "action room" as it is called. It does this where through a realistic simulation of all the factors affecting this enemy attacks on convoys and all conditions aboard the defending ships.

Behind the unique project is the flotilla officer of a mixed-bill group of ships of different tonnage in the training command officer for the Atlantic Coast. Head of a highly successful group here he was in command of a Canadian destroyer early in the war he can attest to war of instilling combat experience into crews (one that had not yet met up with U-boat).

The action room was the answer. The original room was set up at an East Coast port. Here, in a great darkened chamber, is a working bridge with all the fittings. Here is the ship's officers around it in a low hum. Where the engine, the substations and the other essentials maintained are dials value . . .

The captain and his officers man the bridge. In other rooms linked with the bridge by voice-pipe are the radar and hydrophone equipment. The surface ships can be raised by radar. When the sub's submerged, can be picked up by sonic or hydrophone provided they are manipulated correctly from the bridge.

MAN GANG UP FOR AN ATTACK

While the scrap is going on, the captain of the training ship has to conduct his manoeuvring with due regard to the position of the enemy in convoy and the other escort craft. Sometimes perhaps he will gang up with another escort to stage a double-barreled attack on a sub."

He can fire star shells or rockets to help him locate his quarry, get blind-side on, operate lighting effect on the designated spot on the "sea."

While this is going on the convoy group is continually zig-zagging or doing other anti-submarine manoeuvres. Orders may be coming from the escort ship by radio or aldis lamp. There is a continuous flood of reports from the operators of the detection gear.

The run will last probably a half-hour. After that there is an adjournment to a conference room where training officers who have been observing the fray sit down with the trainees to assess the outcome, point out errors and suggest steps that should have been taken.

Found Landing On Sicily Quite Tough

LONDON, July 27 (CP)—The young Canadians who just returned from the Sicilian operations, said today the landing of troops and supplies on Sicily was three times as tough as last Autumn's landings on North Africa.

Bronzed by four months duty in the Mediterranean area, Leading Seaman Peter Macnab, of Montreal, and James Macfarlane, of Vancouver, were among the first Canadians to return to Britain from Sicily. They came back on ships which carried Italian prisoners.

Macnab and McFarland took part in both the North African and Sicilian landing operations as members of Combined-Operations personnel.

"Despite the lack of heavy opposition, this job seemed three times as tough as North Africa," said Macnab. "The sea was the roughest I had ever been out on and this time we knew we were going to face the enemy.

"Their assault craft made each trips alongside our ships like tiny transports, skirting minefields and undamaged by shells and machine-gun fire from the shore in land regular troops of a famed British regiment.

UNDER CONTROL AS FIW WITH

McFarland said these troops "had their sections of the beach under control in a manner of a fair minutes."

Macnab and McFarland both of whom had volunteered for special services duty in Halifax, were with the British forces that landed on the right of the Canadian troops on the Pachino Peninsula July 10.

"The Canadians spoke of the Italians being cheerful at the prospect of capitulity and of one who asked to be allowed to join the British forces against the Germans.

They also told of a prisoner, of about twenty-five who said he had lived at Hamilton, Ont. for several years, and whose parents are still there. A native of Italy, he had gone there for a visit before the war with his wife and children, being refused permission to go back to Canada.

Macnab and McFarland did not know whether the prisoner's wife was a Canadian, but said that he was among the happiest of all prisoners they had seen. It was leaving Italy, even as a prisoner of war.

NO. 193—EIGHTY-FIFTH YEAR — VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, WEDNESDAY, JULY 28, 1943

SECOND NEWS SECTION

Glancing Over Sport—

By JOE DELABUNTY

NOT PLAYING THE GAME

There is such a thing as going too far with a joke. Well, that's what the Eagles and Navy ball clubs did the other evening at the Athletic Park, as the game got fed up and a good majority of them walked out when the boys started acting up. Hopefully basing the lodgepole were hand-of most of their eight runs on a platter, and to make matters worse the management sent the bat boy in to pinch-hit with the bases loaded in the fifth. The Navy outfielders seeing the news and knowing full well the "kid" couldn't hit the ball out of the infield, left their positions and held a meeting behind second base. That's carrying the joke too far. Then the sailors sent their bat shaggy to the plate when their turn came to swing at the offerings of the kind mere's pitcher. . . . Victoria's baseball public can stand so much, but when the teams want to turn the game into a farce, that gets under their skin. The Eagles are bad enough when they are trying their best—they don't have to try and are bad enough—but whenever the schedule will soon be finished, and the playoffs will be starting next week. The lose-leading clubs will be in the thick and by-scramble for the honors, and the public will certainly see some first-class ball games. This evening's battle between the Army and Navy should be a dilly. Jimmy Desmarais, who pitched the Mine-Jackets in two straight defeats over the troops, and he will be set to make it three in succession. He is expected to get the starting assignment, and Gerry Whitney will most likely be the choice from the Army ballpen.

ODDS AND ENDS

Victorians thought they gave nobody at a short ball club when the Bellingham nine performed here on May 24. But old you have heard of powerful Port Lawton club did to them the other day. The Army sailors boys just trimmed them by twenty-six runs the final tabulation being 36 to 1. Each Tommy, the youngster who held down first base for the Seattle Rainiers last season, smacked out a homer, triple, double, a single and then fanned once. Local officials have been trying for some time to get Port Lawton over here for a twin bill but so far arrangements couldn't be made as the boys have been more than full with their league schedule. Had a visit from Dick Bird, former sports editor of The Seattle Star, yesterday afternoon. He is now in Uncle Sam's forces and is working out of the Sound City on the recruit board. Dick is spending a week holiday in the city, and will take in Sunday's ball game as guest of the association.

Football officials didn't have much time with those gridbirds launched by the RCAF and the Victoria Machinery Depot. They promptly began both of them over the window after reading the complaints at a special meeting the other evening. From what I can gather neither club had much ground for protesting as the lines were in the wrong from the start. With an outsider to back them up the football umpires are getting tougher. The manager of the ship-yard team was heard out of a game the other evening after being warned while the president of the league was called to the sideline. At Victoria West Park during a girls' game he warned his club finish out the battle from a ball overlooking the diamond but he didn't seem to mind.

FROM HERE AND THERE

If the Brillingham baseballers finish in first place in the Vancouver League they will not be eligible to meet the local winners for the British Columbia senior championship. No American team can place off for the provincial honors so if the Bells win the pennant it will mean that the top-ranking Vancouver club will face the locals in the best of a seven-game series which will end here on Labor Day.

Was talking to Cec "Tiger" Cuthbert, well-known Navy wrestler, and he says there will be a terrific crowd on hand to watch "The Angel" grapple on the Mainland. Cec just returned from Vancouver and looked over the ball teams over there last Saturday. He tells me the Army has a smart line-up but the sailors let them down in the game he saw. No more than 800 attended the fixture at the Athletic Park which goes to show that the Vancouver ballplayers don't draw half the crowd we are getting here.

Today's feature race at Hastings Park will bring together a smart field of ponies. The distance is a mile and an eighth and some truth thinks the winner will be none other than Passage Bill. Woodbrook gave him a neat ride the last time out to finish second to Sahara Chief. The Victoria-owned horse ran away over the longer distance, so that's my choice for top money. Here's how your scribbler thinks they will finish (and the betters stand): Passage, 2; Sahara Chief, 3 Killarney 1.

Cricket Game Today

Spectators and the Royal Air Force will meet again this afternoon at Beacon Hill Park in their usual mid-week cricket match. Play will commence at 2:30. Spitfirers will line up as follows: Oakman, Margary, Fletcher, Wilson, Yale, Jackson, Bailey, Gardner, Kennedy, Sherman and Freeman.

Sparked by Carther Pool Mets, three hits and a walk in five times at bat, Boston's Braves thrashed Cincinnati 8-2 in the first of a five game league series.

Chicago White Sox blasted our nine hours off Dutch Leonard in defeat Washington 6-5 before a small crowd of 3,516.

Harris Fired Says Paper

The Philadelphia Record will announce tomorrow that Philadelphia Phillies have fired R. (Bucky) Harris as manager and named Fred Fitzsimmons, Brooklyn Dodgers pitcher-coach, to take his place

The move, The Record will say, was announced as having been made by the clubs board of directors.

A statement issued by the Phillies office read—

The board of directors of the Philadelphia National League club announced today that Mr. Fred Fitzsimmons, formerly coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers has been engaged as manager of the Phillies to assume his duties before the opening game in St. Louis tomorrow (Wednesday) night.

The board stated that it had considered the matter of the management of the club at great length and believes that the action taken was in the best interests of the successful operation of the club.

Fitzsimmons, a native of more than eighteen years of major league pitching with New York and Brooklyn, came up to the National League from Indianapolis in 1925. He spent the greater part of his major league career with New York Giants. He was traded to Brooklyn with Dazzy Vance in 1937 and later became a Dodger coach.

He has pitched in nine games this year, winning three and losing four. Twice he led the Giants in the National League. In 1930 he won thirteen games and lost seven for the Giants and in 1940 he compiled a record of sixteen victories and ten defeats for Brooklyn. He pitched in three world series, but never won a game. Having been with the Giants in 1933 and 1936 and being forced out of the Brooklyn line-up by an injury in 1941 after pitching seven scoreless innings against the Yankees.

The Victoria and District Racing Pigeon Club held its first young-bird race of the season from Bellingham, an airline distance of eighty miles. There were 180 birds representing eighteen lofts liberated but, being first time birds were on the road and with a heavy haze over the water, results were disappointing.

The positions are in order named:—1, Blackstock; 2, Bowcott, 3, Boyle, 4, Woolley, 5, Corbett, 6, Tait, 7, McColl, 8, Edge, 9, Cox, 10, Fish, 11, Saville, 12, Hardy, 13, McPherson, 14, Rowe.

Babe Ruth Boss Today

To Manage Team In Benefit Game

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP)—The big fire is coming home tomorrow to home to the vast concrete house he built with his two powerful arms.

Babe Ruth, the man who built the house that Ruth built—the manager-for-a-day of a team made up of members of the Yankee and Cleveland Indian squads, known as the Yank-Lands, meets the Cloud Busters, of the North Carolina Navy Pre-Flight School, in an exhibition game as part of a Red Cross benefit doubleheader. The Yanks and Indians play their regularly scheduled game in the other half of the bill.

It won't be the Ruth of old. He won't roll up to the plate with that mincing stride to send a baseball in a tremendous arc into the right field bleachers. He won't, that is, unless he personally elects himself to the role of pinch-hitter, and late reports indicate he will confine his duties strictly to managing.

He'll be the sole boss. Managers Lou Boudreau, of the Indians, and Joe McCarthy, of the Yankees, will withdraw to the shadows of the dugouts after they have directed their respective teams in the regular league game beating everything to the Bambino and his two aides, Francis Arr, President, of the Yanks, and Del Baker of Cleveland.

It will be the fulfillment of a dream for Ruth—the dream of managing a team of major leaguers on the stadium which saw his greatest glory.

Trapshoot Meet Will Be Staged

VANDALIA O., July 27 (AP)—America's biggest gracefulness shooting spree—the grand American trap shoot—may go ping instead of boom this year.

Extending its tradition of never having been cancelled in forty-four years, the big clay target barrage, scheduled on August 25, 26 and 27, but on sub-limit probably will be more nice it as the usual resonful "roaring grand."

Wartime trouble including ammunition shortages, gasoline rations, tire and travel restrictions are expected to cut a swath through the American shoot.

For years more than 1,000,000 expending shotgun shells have fired, beginning for eight days during the grand. But this year, feature events slashed to three days. In the past some 1,000 targets were thrown for each entrant over the full round but this time the total will be 500.

Wonderland racing establishment refused to pay $100 or $150 daily to rent film on-the-job. Profit Wonderland offered to pay one-tenth of 1 per cent of the daily mutuel handle and snarled bitterly when the take soared immediately to an average $240,000 (setting the limit $200 rental the tracks set but never expected to pay).

THE CAMERA DOESN'T LIE

Elmer deflates the theory that the camera favors the outside horse. And if you think the picture can be doctored you're wrong too. The eye-in-the-sky company offers $5,000 to anyone who can touch up and prove in thirty minutes it makes it appear that the second horse actually won the race.

ANNOYED

A friend of mine—a dressmaker—had a client who lived at the very top of a large block of flats. The lorries tried to persuade her to come down and sleep on the ground floor but she obstinately refused.

"No," she said. "I've been in two to pieces. But the very keep flat remained intact, perched on ruined walls.

"Who is it and what do you want?" she explained to her that the whole block had been bombed.

"I thought I heard a noise," she said and was quite annoyed at being ordered to get up put on a coat over her nightgown and climb down the ladder immediately.

Photography in Coastal Areas Is Prohibited

The shores and waters of coastal British Columbia are now entirely prohibited areas for photography of fields of the Joint Services Security Intelligence Bureau, Pacific Command, point out.

Defence of Canada Regulations prohibit photography of any part of the shoreline of any remote gitting in coastal or offshore waters. Carrying of cameras on ships has long been prohibited.

Security officials state there is no desire to interfere with outdoor makers seeking to keep a photographic record of family outings. They add, however that care and patriotic judgment should be used in the choice of backgrounds and potential photographers should acquaint themselves with photographic regulations.

The claim that photographic regulations are nullified because picture postcard views are available in stores is refuted by the Security Bureau. Its officials point out that the views were all taken prior to the outbreak of war. Those considered of interest to security have been officially banned in

Since the war started state Regulations, Security officials ask the same co-operation from the coastal dwellers user.

Expect Increased Millwood Supply

About fifty cords of millwood will be made available daily in Victoria from the new Hillcrest sawmill at Mesachie Lake, near Duncan, if the mill reaches its estimated daily production of 150,000 to 175,000 feet, according to C. H. Unkuma, local wood fuel officer of the Department of Munitions and Supply.

Mr. Unkuma said the mill was scheduled to start near August 1, and that Victoria will be the logical market for its millwood output.

An additional twenty cords daily will be provided by a Victoria mill when it starts production, he said. Alternate service workers will be diverted to cutting millwood when the fire season closes, he said, and self-help groups have promised to cut 3,000 cords.

He stressed, however the need for individuals to take every means to help themselves, and urged that sawdust users buy spruce and hemlock sawdust when the more preferred fir is not available. He also said industrial users of box flat would be wise to lay in stocks, as Industrial Timber Mills at Youbou now have quantities available for purchase.

Egg Price Ceiling Fixed on March 19 Remains Effective

With the announcement of a new order regulating wholesale selling prices made by the wholesale Fruit Prices and Trade Board in Ottawa, which affects the selling price by one-half cent in Vancouver and Victoria, representatives of the board assume that the present local selling here of forty-nine and one-half cents will stands.

This ceiling price for Grade A large eggs and applying in proportion to cheaper grades, was fixed by March 19, and apparently is not nullified by the new order, a board official in Victoria said. The new ceiling in Vancouver is fifty cents.

However, the new order fixes the maximum markup allowed retailers at six cents while the order of March 19 mentioned a maximum markup equal to the lowest of the wholesale prices plus 25 per cent of selling price or the basic period profit.

Mr. Desbrisay is in Victoria on a routine inspection tour. He will proceed to Seattle after a few days' visit here.

Duncan Protests Destruction of Malahat Beauty

Representations are made Tuesday to the Minister of Lands Hon. A. Wells Gray, by James Orvig, president of the Duncan Board of Commerce regarding logging on the Malahat, which Mr. Orvig said was destroying the scenic beauty of the drive and should be stopped by Government action.

"If action is not taken soon the whole area will be denuded and become a depressing picture of scarred stumps and felled logs," Mr. Orvig said, "to allow the Malahat to be ruined would be a crime. Trees slaughtered now can only be replaced after a lapse of at least fifty years."

Officials of the Department of Lands and the Forestry Branch commenting upon the protest pointed out that very little of the area was Crown land. There was little they could do about privately-owned property except by legislation.

Representations will be carefully considered it was stated but it will be some time before any steps can be taken.

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce and the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island have been asked to join with Duncan in the protest. J. V. Johnson, president of the Victoria Chamber, said Tuesday he was quite in accord with the Duncan viewpoint and felt certain that the chamber would back them up. He suggested that the Government could offer prisoners a tract of Crown lands in some remote area in exchange for their holdings on the Malahat.

CHEMISTRY HELPS TO WIN THE WAR

... But A Whole Loaf is Still Better

YES, a whole loaf is better than half, but how often in the past has a half-eaten loaf been thrown away because mould had spoiled it?

In normal times bread spoiled by mould means a serious loss; in wartime such a loss is disastrous. That's why the discovery of "Mycoban" is so important to Canada and the rest of the United Nations.

"Mycoban" (sodium propionate) is a chemical product which, when added to the baker's dough, delays the growth of mould spores beyond the time when bread would normally grow stale. The addition of "Mycoban" does not affect the taste, quality, appearance or texture of the bread. Besides helping to save many thousands of loaves daily, "Mycoban" is also used to prolong the mould-free life of other bakery products, and of butter, cheese, tobacco, honey and preserves.

Product of the Organic Chemicals Division of C-I-L, "Mycoban" is now being distributed throughout Canada to help Canadian bakers in their war against the blight of bread mould.

The contribution of "A cook-book" towards national food economy is a patriotic message of the product of Industrial Chemistry which bears Canada's war effort.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP).—Stocks broke 1 to more than 3 points in today's market after a mild forenoon attempt at recovery failed to follow through.

It was the most severe setback since early last April and in the usually dull departments were as urgent that the high-speed ticker tape did two minutes behind floor transactions for the first time since April 8.

There was little in the immediate news to account for the brisk extension of Monday's relapse, and brokers inclined to blame it mainly on further profit-taking and liquidation of accounts in preparation for a possible peace overture by Italy. The latter move, it was suggested, while bullish for the long pull, could revive appreciation of shareholders over the international economic situation with a sudden break-up of the Axis Powers. In addition, the recent climb of the market to average highs for the past three to six years was an inspiration to many customers to unload on the idea of a substantial correction of the statemente-moning upsing was in the sifting.

Price-rated issues did fairly well in the morning but most of those went along with the armament stocks in the late reaction. Three were a few come-backs at the close, but the majority of leaders finished six or more the bottom for the session.

Many potential purchasers stood aside to await the President's broadcast tomorrow evening which it was felt might have to do partly with a new programme for battling inflation.

The Associated Press sixty-stock average was off 1.3 points. It was the broadest market in several months, 1,001 individual issues being traded. Of these 802 were down, ninety-four up and 104 unchanged. Transfers totalled 1,796,000 shares compared with 1,455,000 the day before, and were the largest since May 11.

Local Wholesale Producer Market

A drastic shortage of oranges to commence in about three weeks is predicted by officials on wholesale row, who say it will continue until the end of November. The scarcity, caused by an unusually short crop in California, coupled with the demands of the American Government, which takes 30 per cent for lend-lease is now evident in Vancouver.

An accumulation of stocks by wholesalers in Victoria has aided the
